ANNA ROOSEVELT DALL HEADS FOR A RENO DIVORCE

Has Leased Home Near Lake Tahoe To Establish Residence

By ROY P. PORTER
(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.)

Omaha, Neb., June 16 —(AP)—Anna Roosevelt Dall, daughter of the president, sped today toward Reno and a dvorce.

In an exclusive interview on her train last night, the blond matron who has been a resident of the White House with her father and mother confirmed reports that the primary purpose of her journey was to begin proceedings against her broker-husband, Curtis B. Dall.

"I can't say positively that I'm going to get a divorce," she said. "Many things might arise. I don't believe any woman can say such a thing definitely."

Reticent to discuss her personal affairs, Mrs. Dall had secluded herself in a compartment with her two children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie" and a Negro maid.

"Buzzie" Has Cold

"Buzzie" is ill with a cold, she said, and she had spent an almost sleepless night watching over him enroute from Washington to Chicago.

Mrs. Dall has leased a home near Lake Tahoe, she said, through an agent and plans to establish residence in Nevada. She has not retained an attorney, she said.

In her discussion, she compared her situation to that of her brother Elliott, who was divorced last July at Minden, Nev., and married Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex. less than two weeks later at Burlington Iowa.

"There is little reason why the private life of any persons should be exposed to the glare of publicity" she said. Then she added, "but I guess I'm up against the same thing Elliott was when he divorced and remarried."

Separation Year Ago

The president's daughter has seen her husband only a few times in calls at the White House since their separation more than a year ago, she said.

She declined to comment on the nature of the charges which might be made in the prospective divorce action.

With little hesitation, Mrs. Dall made it plain that the divorce proceedings were anything but pleasant to her.

"It's rather hard for anyone to say he or she is going to Reno to get a divorce," she said in a low voice as her fingers played nervously with the white starched cuff on her blue silk dress.

"We may want a divorce but there are any number of things to consider. It's easy to start off—but rather hard to carry through."

Compartment Is Guarded

Mrs. Dall was carefully guarded by railroad officials as the train passed across the corn belt. She made known she had given specific instructions not to be disturbed and had gone so far as to issue orders that railroad employes were not to enter her compartment unless she rang for service.

Dinner for herself and the children was served in the compartment by waiters who carefully shielded the persons inside from the view of other passengers. She had spent part of the afternoon in the club car listening to a baseball broadcast.

Her immediate plans upon arrival in Reno have not been formulated, she said.

Langer Jury Keeps on Arguing After Taking Short Rest

Bismarck, N. Dak., June 16—(AP)—Forty-four hours after they received the conspiracy case in which Gov. William Langer and four associate stand accused of a crime against the United States government, 12 jurors calmly returned to their deliberations, today, seeking to break a serious deadlock.

Hardly showing the effects of long weary hours of debate and argument, the jury resumed its deliberations at 9:30 A. M.—four hours after a 20 hour stretch, interrupted only once for luncheon.

At 5:30 A. M. today they decided to rest. Three hours later the men were at their breakfast, and then returned to the guarded jury room.

Airplanes equipped with skis transported a 25-horsepower tractor and a sawmill with a capacity of 10,000 feet of lumber a day from Anchorage, Alaska, to the Beluga mountain range.

BAKER DECLARED WINNER IN LEE CENTER CONTEST

Co. Judge Leech Gives Decision in School Election Dispute

Claire Baker was declared legally elected as director of school district, No. 31 in South Dixon by Judge Leech in the County Court this morning, in the contest which has been in progress for several days this week. The corut declared that Baker received 26 legal votes and that Edward Hinrichs received 25, declaring the former the legally elected director.

Judge Leech in announcing his decison stated that in his opinion voters came into the district upon the solicitation of J. W. Pine, and commenting upon this part of his opinion, said:

"The importation of voters should meet with the disapproval of all who are interested in a legal and fair election. Our schools are sacred institutions and should be regarded as such, for the education of the boys and girls. The elections in the school districts should be conducted without interference by any individual or group of individuals."

The hearing, brought by Baker against Hinrichs, charging improper and illegal voting, occupied the greater part of two days in the county court, during which the county court room was crowded to its capacity and standing room was at a premium. Attorney Martin J. Gannon appeared for the plaintiff and John J. Armstrong for the defendant.

LEVY FOR DIXON PARKS FIXED BY BOARD LAST EVE

Commission Compelled to Levy for Two Years: Policeman Hired

The newly elected Dixon Park Commission held its first regular meeting since its organization last night and its most important action was the declaration of a tax leby for next year of 1½ mills, which will raise a total of approximately $14,000, which must operate the Dixon parks for two years.

Since the decision of the Attorney General that Dixon's former method of raising money was illegal, County Clerk Fred Dimick was unable to include the park tax in this year's levy, which left the parks without funds for this year, and so it is now necessary for the park commission to levy a double tax for this year and next, allowing them $7000 for each year, which is $2000 less than the 1932 levy.

The park commission will be forced to borrow money for its operations during this year and pay it back out of the $14,000 which will be realized by next year's tax collections.

Sodergren Employed

The park commission last night appointed Paul F. Sodergren of 1213 Third street as a special policeman for Lowell Park. He will police the grounds, maintaining order and enforcing the park rules and regulations. Speeding on the park roads will bring arrests and no rowdyism will be tolerated in the park.

Willard Jones is Elected Officer Morticians' Assn.

Willard Jones of this city, who is associated with his mother, Mrs. Celia Jones, in the Jones Funeral Home, was honored this week at the fifty-fourth annual convention of the Illinois Funeral Directors association, being elected second vice president. The convention was held in Rockford and was the best attended of recent years.

The annual banquet was served at the Faust hotel Thursday evening which was followed by an interesting program. Hon. Wayland Brooks of Chicago, formerly of Dixon, was the principal speaker and talked on the subject, "The Constitution of the United States." Willard Jones acted as toastmaster at the meeting which followed the banquet and enjoyed the privilege of introducing the former Dixon young man who is one of the most promising members of the Republican party in Illinois.

Mrs. J. Lepley is Sumoned This Morn

Mrs. Julius Lepley passed away at her home, 417 Third avenue about 7 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held at the home Monday afternoon at 3:30. The obituary will be published later.

"NOT GUILTY" IS VERDICT FOR H. L. WILLIAMSON CASE

Political Persecution Fails to Impress Jury In Springfield

By ROBERT P. HOWARD
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Springfield Ill., June 16—(AP)—A verdict for acquittal today had ended the trial of Hiram L. Williamson, charged with his former secretary, Nelle A. Machin, of conspiring to defraud the state while he was Superintendent of Printing.

Deliberating less than three hours, the jury returned its verdicts freeing Williamson and Miss Machin last night.

Five days were consumed in the trial, which saw two Assistant Attorneys General trying to prove that the defendants handled state payroll warrants in an irregular manner.

Williamson, a prominent Republican and secretary of the Illinois Press Association, made no statement after the verdict was read in the Sangamon County circuit court at 8:05 P. M.

Neither would Assistant Attorney General J. J. Neiger, who brought the charges against Williamson, and Walker Butler of Chicago, special prosecutor, say whether they would press another conspiracy indictment against the former Superintendent and three others.

It was indicated that this charge might not be brought to trial. It involves the alleged disappearance of paper stock from a state warehouse.

Reports were that six ballots were taken as one juror voted to convict.

During the trial former Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom testified that the men who received the money from the questioned warrants were his secret investigators.

Political Persecution

Williamson's attorney, A. M. Fitzgerald, told the jury yesterday that the former printing superintendent is being persecuted by the state adminstration.

Butler, who made the closing arguments for the state, contended that the treasury had been robbed by the alleged conspiracy and said that the state was ready to indict others involved.

CUBA MOVES TO END TERRORIST FEAR IN HAVANA

Stroke at President's Life Yesterday Has Stirred Gov't.

Havana, June 16 —(AP)— Terrorist, who struck at the life of President Carlos Mendieta with a bomb concealed in a camera box stirred the Cuban cabinet and government today into a grim anti-terror campaign.

Ten suspects are in jail, arrested after an explosion yesterday which injured the president, killed two men and wounded 10 others at an official luncheon.

The cabinet met early this morning and made public a new law of public order which the government hopes will break up the persistent epidemic of terrorist activities.

The law forbids civilians to carry or possess firearms of any kind except by special license and provides that the government will buy all arms at prices ranging from $10 for pistols to $50 for machine guns.

The death penalty may be applied to convicted terrorists if deaths or injuries have resulted from an explosion for which they are found responsible, or if the explosion occurs in a place where life is endangered.

First Lady's Farm Project to Get a Factory After All

Washington, June 16—(AP)—The Reedsville, W. Va., subsistence homestead project that Mrs. Roosevelt has befriended is going to have a factory after all—but a privately-owned one.

While a proposal to use government money to put a $650,000 postal equipment factory there lay stormbound in Congress, a large industry clinched a deal to erect a small branch at Reedsville. This was learned today from an authoritative source.

Industrial jobs will be available for the fathers of the first fifty families who have already planted food-crops, thus rounding out the President's plan of "more abundant living."

The factory will make parts for household appliances.

Body of Woman Washed Ashore on Long Island Not That of Lawyer Missing Since Marriage Last Dec.

New York, June 16—(AP)—Police today announced that the body of an unidentified woman at Fordham morgue was not that of Agnes Tufvertson, missing corporation lawyer of Detroit and New York.

The Tufvertson woman has been missing since shortly after her marriage to Ivan Ponderjay last December.

The body of the woman at the morgue, which had been washed ashore from Long Island Sound, had been in the water for some time. The keeper of the Fordham morgue saw pictures of the missing woman and said they resembled the body.

Acting Capt. John H. Ayres, head of the Missing Persons Bureau, visited the morgue today, viewed the body and compared the description of the missing woman with that of the body.

He said that while the missing woman was five feet, six inches tall, the body measured five feet, one-half inch. Other details did not fit the description, Capt. Ayres said

Leader of Kidnap Gang, Fugitive From Chester Since April 27, Caught

Surrendered With No Struggle at East St. Louis, Ill.

East St. Louis, Ill., June 16—(AP)—Randol Eugene Norvell, fugitive kidnap gang chief, was captured here early today and returned to Southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester.

Norvell, head of the gang that abducted August Luer, Alton, Ill., banker, had been free fifty days since a spectacular escape through a prison sewer pipe, April 27. He was found asleep in a three-room yellow frame house which Sheriff Peter Fitzgerald of Madison county had watched for three weeks.

He surrendered to more than a dozen county authorities and prison officials armed with sub-machine guns and riot guns and said, "I'm glad it's over."

Peter Crouch and his wife, Minnie, occupants of the house were arrested with Norvell. Shortly after the capture three residents of Nameoki, Ill., were also arrested, and the prosecuting attorneys's office said the five will be charged with aiding an escaped convict.

Is Put In "Hole"

Norvell, fat and sleek, his hair dyed red and with a red mustache, was taken immediately to the penitentiary where he was put in the "hole" where rebellious convicts are kept.

Sheriff Fitzgerald telephoned Warden Joseph Ragen of the prison last midnight, saying the kidnaper was located. Ragen and a force of guards hurried here and joined Fitzgerald and his deputies.

Norvell surrendered when a deputy pressed the trigger of a submachine gun and a burst of bullets ripped through the porch floor of the Crouch home.

The fugitive was barefoot and clad in khaki coveralls.

"I'm glad it's all over," he said to Warden Ragen." I'm sure glad to see you."

Had Broken Ribs

The Warden commented on the escaped prisoner's good appearance and Norvell replied: "That's on the last three weeks. When you fellows were chasing me, I fell over a cliff and broke a bunch of ribs. I'm just getting over it."

James O'Connell, a burglar who escaped with Norvell and was recaptured, had told prison officials Norvell was very ill and probably unable to get out of the hill country where he was thought hiding.

In Norvell's handbag today was found a 14 page letter, stamped and addressed to August Luer, the banker and meat packer abducted last July by Norvell and his associates.

Reassuring Note

It reviewed the convict's testimony at his trial in Edwardsville, when six persons were sent to prison for terms varying from life to five years. Norvell at the time said he participated only because he was afraid of "Irish" O'Malley, ex-convict who is still a fugitive on the kidnaping charge.

The letter stated Norvell had no intention of harming the aged banker and declared he escaped from the prison in order to aid his wife and children. "I have a job promised to me, in a distant place. I am going there to take it and after I go, this letter will be mailed to you, to reassure you," the letter to Luer continued.

American Women in Wightman Cup Play Victorious Again

Wimbledon, Eng., June 16—(AP)—A pair of singles victories by Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., and Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., today gave the United States the Wightman Tennis Cup for the fourth straight year and the eighth time since the international competition with England was inaugurated in 1923.

Going into the final day with a lead of two matches to one, Miss Jacobs, American champion and team leader, added to America's advantage by winning in two hard fought sets, 6-4, 6-4, from Dorothy Round first ranking British player. Yesterday Miss Jacobs smothered Margaret (Peggy) Scriven under a 6-1, 6-1 defeat.

The cup was clinched for the fourth consecutive year by little Sarah Palfrey, who rallied gloriously to conquer Miss Scriven 4-6, 62, 8-6.

Sharon, Pa., June 16 —(AP)— A Coroner's jury has recommended Homer M. Sanders be held for the grand jury for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Leah Minerva Dilley, whose charred body was found yesterday in a pyre after a 12-day search.

Police said Sanders, 43, college graduate and former school teacher, signed a statement saying he found the four-year-old girl dead in a dwelling he had fumigated.

In the statement Sanders said he became fear-stricken and carried the body in a blanket to his garage and the next morning took it to a field five miles from town and set fire to it.

Sanders is in jail.

PARIS IN GRIP OF FEAR: MANY BOMBS IN MAIL

Precautions Taken to Guard President and Premier

Paris, June 16 —(AP)— Special precautions were taken today to guard President Lebrun and Premier Doumergue against the bombs of terrorists with a strange mythological twist who call themselves "The Three Judges of Hell."

For the last four days the plotters, called madmen by police, have scattered infernal machines by mail in Paris, making mail deliveries a thing of fear.

Coming in the midst of outbreaks in the provinces, the campaign of terror has police especially alert to protect the mail and the public. Two American companies are among the many which have received bombs from the fanatics.

Five new bombs were reported yesterday, making ten in all. Two of the infernal machines exploded, injuring four persons. Alertness by employees averted disaster in the American plants.

In each case the bomb was delivered through the ordinary mail inside a roll of arms catalogue. Only the suspicions of mail clerks prevented further explosions.

Weird notes accompanying the explosives threatened the president, the premier and other high officials of France. Police said cranks, aroused because of the Stavisky scandal, were responsible

Suit Over Proposed Movie Theater Here Under Advisement

A hearing on a bill for specific performance was held this morning before Judge Frank J. Sheean of Galena in the circuit court, which concerned the leasing of the John Fellows building on First street for a motion picture theater by a Chicago firm. Attorney Clyde Smith appeared for Mr. Fellows and Chicago attorneys for the prospective purchaser.

The building was taken under option in April to be used as a motion picture theater, according to the arguments before the court, a real estate firm in Chicago having obtained the location and later bringing the prospective owner to Dixon. Architectural drawings were made and submitted to the city and state fire marshal, who approved these, it was shown. Judge Sheean took the case under advisement until next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rumors were current today of the activity of several Chicago motion picture firms who have been in Dixon recently, seeking suitable locations for show houses.

CLEVELAND BOY SAYS HE HELPED DROWN CHILD, 3

Tells Police His Pal Aided Him: Officers Doubt His Story

BULLETIN

Cleveland, June 16—(AP)— (AP)—The body of three-year-old Peggy Young was found floating in muddy Cuyahoga river this afternoon a few hours after Floyd Ranker, Jr., 10, had told police a weird story about how he pushed the child in the river yesterday.

Cleveland, June 16 —(AP)—Despite the story of a 10-year-old boy that he had pushed three-year-old Peggy Young into Cuyahoga river near its Lake Erie mouth, the police suddenly launched a systematic search of lake front shacks today, in the belief the girl might be held prisoner.

Picked up by police on the street after the girl had been reported missing, the boy sat calmly in a police car at a precinct station and declared he and a 14-year-old companion were responsible.

"We went to the river," he said to police. "We made her lie down on the cinders close to the river bank, Then we all walked to the river.

"My pal asked Peggy if she could swim. She said she couldn't. Then I pushed her in the water. She came up right away kicking her arms and legs.

"My pal picked up a half a brick and threw it at her. It hit her in the stomach and she went down and didn't come up any more."

A short time after the boy had told his story last night, the lad he named as his "pal," accompanied by his parents, appeared at a police station and denied any knowledge of the girl's disappearance

INVESTIGATION RECEIVERSHIPS IS AUTHORIZED

Government Acts Following Accusation of Former Dixonite

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—Agents of the department of justice have been ordered to make a through investigation and audit of the books and accounts of federal receivers in Chicago, it was disclosed at the United States court house today.

The investigation was ordered, it was said, as the result of the alleged confession by E. H. Johnson, formerly of Dixon, a federal bankruptcy receiver and trustee for 25 years, to the concealment and embezzlement of $183,000 from bankrupt estates. Johnson has been indicted on the charge.

From reliable sources it has been learned that the investigation was authorized by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings at the request of Dwight H. Green, United States District Attorney, and Gargeld Charles and Edmund D. Adcock, referees in bankruptcy

Three Accountants

James C. Leaton, assistant district attorney, has been assigned to coordinate the work of the department of justice agents and other accountats working on the books of ten Chicago receivers and trustees. Three accountants have been assigned to the job by the division of investigation.

The referees have instructed all receivers and trustees to furnish certified statements of the bank accounts of each trust estate in their care. Detailed reports every two months also were ordered.

Johnson was said to have confessed that he was able to manipulate the accounts in his care for a period of 12 years by carrying a general account in one bank under his name as trustee. The law requires a separate bank account in the name of each estate.

A preliminary check to date was said to have disclosed no other discrepancy. The estates in receivership total millions of dollars.

NEW SCHEME TO AVERT STRIKES IS "DANGEROUS"

Steel Strike Is Delayed: New Bill is Called Sell Out of Men

Pittsburgh, June 16—(AP)—The administration's substitute for the Wagner labor control bill, designed to end strike threats in the steel industry, was assailed as "dangerous to industrial peace" by heads of company-employe organizations of seven steel companies today.

Passage of the legislation "will only precipitate instead of mitigate bloody labor disturbances throughout the land," said a message telegraphed to President Roosevelt and the 96 senators.

The signers claimed to represent 75,000 steel workers in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio plants.

The strike threat was described in the message as a "deliberate effort by professional labor organizers to intimidate congress into passing a measure that would deliver into their hands millions of American workers at so much per head."

PLAN PASSES HOUSE

Washington, June 16—(AP)—The House today passed the administration bill to establish mediation boards to settle collective bargaining disputes.

Action was taken without a record vote and the measure was sent to the senate.

Enactment is demanded by the administration before adjournment.

The measure was brought to the floor by Representative Byrns, the Democratic leader, under procedure requiring unanimous consent.

The Republicans demanded an explanation of the measure and, after brief discussion, it was put to a vote by Speaker Rainey and passed almost before the members realized it.

Representative Mapes (R. Mich.) pressed Byrns for more explanation and the Democratic leader said:

"From reading the measure, I don't think it does any more than reenact powers the President already has."

The measure authorizes the President to establish boards to investigate "issues, facts, practices or activities of employers or employes in any controversies" growing out of the NRA or which threaten to interfere with interstate commerce.

Chairman Nonnery (D. Mass.) of the labor committee said the American Federation of Labor had preferred the original Wagner bill, but would accept the modification.

Pittsburgh, June 16—(AP)—A strike-threatened steel industry—granted a temporary amnesty by a large portion of its workers—turned to Washington today for initial steps in putting into effect a non-strike agreement.

The agreement, proposed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, calls for a presidential-appointed board to settle disputes within the industry.

Its acceptance at a strike convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers last night marked an armistice in a grave situation which had existed in the steel industry since the association's annual convention in April.

At that time, the union voted to demand recognition as the steel workers' bargaining agent.

With such recognition generally refused by the steel operators, the convention was called to decide upon a means of reaching its objective — generally construed to mean a strike.

Factions United

Green's appearance yesterday, with his mediation-board proposal, before the 200 delegates to the special convention served to bring together opposing factions in the Amalgamated which had split on the strike question.

One faction, headed by 72-year-old Michael Tighe, president of the association, favored a strike only as a last resort in the drive for recognition; seeking postponement of the strike call until all other efforts to reach an agreement with the steel industry had been exhausted.

The other faction, the "rank and file" group, headed by Earl J. Forbeck of Duquesne, urged an immediate walkout.

As the two factions apparently cemented themselves behind Green, they ended their special convention late last night, after two days of discussions, speeches, proposals and counter-proposals.

Their last function was adoption of an amendment to the Green proposal to leave the way open for a strike call if the proposal "is not accepted by the President and the Iron & Steel Institute."

They added a provision that, in such event, "the international officers are delegated with power to call a strike at a time which the officers will set."

The Green proposal, a peace pact, in the eyes of most observers, contains three major points. They are:

1—The President of the United States shall appoint an impartial board of three members to arbitrate employe-operator disputes.

2—The board shall be empowered "with authority to order and hold elections under its (the board's) direction and supervision."

3—All grievances and complaints which cannot be settled by the elected employe representatives shall be submitted to the presidential board for final determination.

No Intimidation

The pact stresses that the employe representatives elected under mediation-board supervision "shall be free from intimidation and coercion on the part of employers."

Giddy Joy Ride Inside Century of Progress Gates Sends Girl to Jail and Lawyer Companion to Hospital

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—A giddy "joy ride" inside the World's Fair gates ended abruptly early today with a young attorney critically injured when thrown through the windshield of a milk truck commandeered by him and a girl entertainer companion.

The truck, driven by the girl, bounded another vehicle 15 feet into a Hall of Science exhibit.

Police said the girl, Miss Christina McCoy, 22, blond entertainer at "The Oasis," was walking with Robert H. Barnes, 26, the attorney, after she had finished her work. They espied the milk truck, parked while its driver made deliveries, and started away in it.

Miss McCoy, they said, attempted to pass between two trucks at a high speed and was unable to make it.

Barnes was given treatment and removed to a hospital. The McCoy girl was taken to the detective bureau.

ASTOR NOTE OF APOLOGY GIVEN OUT TO PAPERS

Mother of Jilted Intended Bride Ends Discussion

New York, June 16—(AP)—Young John Jacob Astor's apology to his former financee, Eileen Gillespie—the apology in exchange for which he received back the $100,000 diamond engagement ring he had given Miss Gillespie—was made public today by the young woman's mother, Mrs. Lawrence Lewis Gillespie.
Said Mrs. Gillespie in the latest statement in the sharp verbal exchange over the broken romance:
"In reported interviews to the press Mr. John Jacob Astor seems to cause some doubt as to the quality of his apology."
The following, Mrs. Gilespie said, is the text of the letter which the Astor scion gave to Miss Gillespie last Monday and received, in return, the ring.

Text of His Note

"Dear Miss Gillespie: I willingly withdraw anything I may have said to you in the corridor of the Savoy-Plaza hotel on Sunday, January 21, 1934, which may have hurt you, and I apologize.
"I assure that if I have occasion to speak or write of you or your family it will be only with respect, for as you know, I have always held you in the highest esteem.
"Sincerely,
"J. J. Astor."

Mrs. Gillespie's statement concluded:
"It is not desired that any further discussion on his subject shall nsue."
While the latest exchange was occurring, invitations went out for the wedding of young Astor and Ellen Tuck French, debutante, at Newport, June 30.

Fall Sustained in Epileptic Attack is Fatal to State Ward

Charles Kenney, 44-year-old epileptic patient at the Dixon state hospital, came to his death from a hemorrhage of the brain and skull fracture, sustained in a fall during an epileptic seizure which he suffered Thursday morning, a jury decided in its investigation last evening at the Jones funeral home. Kenney had been a patient at the institution since early last November and had been committed from Cook county after once having come to the institution as a voluntary patient.
The testimony given at the inquest at 5 o'clock last evening before Coroner Frank M. Banker, disclosed the fact that Kenney suffered an epileptic seizure last Thursday morning about 6 o'clock during which he fell to the floor with considerable force, sustaining a skull fracture. Hemorrage of the brain resulted and his death took place Friday morning about 9:30 at the hospital ward of the institution. An autopsy was performed by staff physicians, who reported their findings at the inquisition last evening.

THREE DEAD IN WILD FIRING OF BANDIT QUARTET

Louisville Officers Obtain Confession from Two Gunmen

Louisville, Ky., June 17—(AP)—The wild firing of young bandits attempting to rob a filling station brought death to three men and resulted today in murder charges being slated against four.
The shooting started when the robbers found they could not open the cash drawer containing about $90. J. B. Schoering, 64, the attendant, and two by-standers, Samuel Horine, 74, who was standing in his front yard, and Cecil Carter, 40, a street railway inspector, at a nearby corner waiting for a bus were fatally wounded.
Police said Willard Hall, 32, and Calvin Tate, 20, had made written confessions that they took part in the attempted holdup, and that Gilbert Gibbs, 34, and Leo J. Tesner, 32, who denied complicity, were waiting for the pair in a car nearby. Police said that the confessions indicated that the two men entered the filling station, had primed themselves on beer and whisky and became infuriated when the couldn't open the cash drawer.

HOUSING BILL BACK IN HOUSE FOR APPROVAL

Measure Is Passed By Senate in Record Time This Morn

Washington, June 16—(AP)—The housing bill providing for partial government guarantee of private loans for home construction and repair was passed today by the senate.
The measure now goes back to the house for action on minor senate amendments.
A motion by Senator Steiwer (R.-Ore.) to strike out provision from creation of national mortgage association was rejected.
The speed with which the senate acted on the housing measure set a near record for a measure of such importance and complexity.
Debate on it did not begin until this morning and lasted only about four hours.
The housing bill swept through on a 71 to 12 vote.
Administration officials intend to use the housing bill as the mainspring for a new attack on unemployment in the building trades and capital goods industries. They claim it will benefit 5,000,000 wage earners.

Main Provisions

Major provisions of the bill are:
A federal housing administrator, to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate.
A $200,000,000 fund under his jurisdiction, to insure 20 per cent of losses by private lending institutions in advancing funds for "installment buying" of home repairs and improvements.
A mutual mortgage insurance fund, also under the administrator, to insure first mortgages on homes and second mortgages on low cost housing projects. It will apply to mortgages up to $16,000, amortized over a 20-year period, and representing not more than 80 per cent of the valuation of new homes or 60 per cent of old ones.

RUMOR DONOVAN WILL RESIGN AS LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Joliet Man Has Ambitions to Become a Federal Judge

Springfield, Ill., June 16—(AP)—Rumors that Thomas F. Donovan of Joliet might resign as Lieutenant Governor were current at the State House today, with State Treasurer John C. Martin of Salem being mentioned as his successor.
Donovan is understood to have ambitions to fill the next vacancy in the United States District Court judgeship in the Chicago district.
Possibilities of the change in Democratic personnel were widely discussed. Daniel Sullivan, administrative auditor and secretary of the Democratic state central committee, said it was under consideration.
The procedure would be for Donovan to resign as Lieutenant Governor, letting the Democratic state committee nominate his successor for the rest of the four year term ending in January, 1937.

Martin's Term Near End

Martin's term as State Treasurer ends this year. He cannot succeed himself. If nominated and elected Lieutenant Governor, he would take office as soon as his present term ends, retaining his position as one of the downstate Democratic leaders.
Reports were that Scott Lucas, chairman of the state tax commission, also is under consideration for promotion.
If Donovan should resign, it would be necessary for the Republican state committee also to nominate a candidate for Lieutenant Governor.
Donovan was replaced two months ago as chairman of the Democratic state committee.

Insull Lost Again in Pleading Today

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—Samuel Insull today lost his second consecutive round in his battle to avoid trial in federal court on charges of using the mails to defraud.
Judge Philip L. Sullivan overruled a plea in abatement which challenged the legality of the grand jury which returned the indictment against Insull and seventeen other defendants.
Insull's counsel informed the court in arguments over the motion that not until Insull was thrust in jail at Smyrna, Turkey, did he have actual knowledge that he was under indictment in Chicago on the mail fraud charge.
The indictment was voted Feb. 27, 1933.

A survey made by the board of paroles and pardons in California showed 38 per cent of the persons sentenced to death in the state during the past 40 years have escaped the noose through commutations or transfers to insane asylums.

NEW SCHEME TO AVERT STRIKES IS "DANGEROUS"

Prior to the strike convention of the Amalgamated association, members of the Iron & Steel Institute had claimed that the majority of the industry's estimated 431,000 workers were opposed to a strike.
They declared the major percentages of the employes in nearly all the nation's steel plants were satisfied with company-supervised employe-representative elections.
Green, in proposing his anti-strike plan at the special convention, threw the entire weight of the American Federation of Labor's 5,000,000 members behind his plea. The Amalgamated association is a part of the federation.
His plan gives the mediation board four specific duties. They are:
A—To receive complaints, and to investigate and adjust on the basis of such complaints any violation of the labor provisions of the NRA code for the iron and steel industry.

To Mediate Disputes

B—To mediate and conciliate any dispute arising between employers and employes under the code, and to undertake to arrange for a conference for collective bargaining with any employer when so requested by representatives of employes selected under section 7-A of the national recovery act.
C—To offer their services as arbitrators in any labor dispute between employes and employers under said code, provided such dispute is voluntarily submitted for arbitration by both such parties.
D—To hear and determine any matter of discrimination against or discharge of any employe in violation of section 7-A of the national recovery act.

Acceptance Awaited

Acceptance of the Green proposal is awaited from the steel operators. This is expected to come through the American Iron & Steel Institute.
Then, it was explained, the new board must be appointed by the President.
With a claimed organization of 150 to 200 lodges—one lodge to each steel plant, except in the case of large plants— Amalgamated officials said they represented approximately 100,000 of the industry's workers.
The present effort marked the most determined effort by the union in its 60 years of existence to obtain complete acceptance from the steel industry.
Having already taken a stand against granting such acceptance, the steel industry, prior to the just-completed strike convention, was understood to be girding for eventualities.
Defying the association, some operators announced they would continue operations "at all costs." Unverified rumors said cots and other accommodations, including food, were being stocked in some of the plants.

Thief Confessed Identity Before His Conviction

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—Allen R. Hammel admitted before his conviction of a $39,000 theft yesterday that he was Allen R. Hammel, Dr. Orlando Scott, alienist, asserted today.
Throughout his trial Hammel had claimed to be Burt Armstrong of New York.
Dr. Scott informed Morris Meyers, assistant state's attorney, that while Hammel was being given a "lie detector" test the detector's needle jumped violently at several points when questions were asked concerning the subject's identity. Later, said Dr. Scott, Hammel admidded his true identity.
Dr. Scott withdrew from the case with the statement that Hammel was feigning in his insistence that he was Armstrong. The alienist said it would have been contrary to professional ethics to have revealed Hammell's confidence until the trial was over. Hammel was convicted of stealing the money from an express truck which he was supposed to be guarding.

CONGRESS MAY BE ABLE TO END SESSION TODAY

Weary Leaders Driving Both Houses in Effort to Adjourn

Washington, June 16 —(AP)—Congress drove wearily today toward the finish of the most astounding legislative job in America's peace-time history.
Only one major tussle—a debate over the resolution designed to avert a strike epidemic—remained before this 73rd Congress passes into history. Leaders hoped the final gavel would fall tonight.
The congress has appropriated vaster sums, given more power to the Executive and passed more experimental and regulatory legislation than any other in times of peace.
In a sitting that lasted almost until 10 o'clock last night, both houses ran through a mass of work. The senate voted about $2,225,000,000 for public works and relief by approving the deficiency appropriation bill.

Tossed Off Many Bills

The house, tossing off bill after bill, authorized an investigation into the need for oil control and a study of America's tin supply; approved a new policy to give more self-government to Indians; approved a national board to settle controversies between railroads and their workers, as well as a pension system for railroad men.
The big deficiency bill went to the house today. The senate put a sharp limitation on the power which the house granted the president in the bill to divert unpledged assets of the RFC to public works and relief. Such assets had been estimated at almost $2,000,000,000.

Potential Uprising

A potential uprising by Independent Republicans against the compromise labor bill remained the one threat to quick adjournment. Stnator LaFollette (R. Wis.) and others demanded passage of the sidetracked Wagner labor disputes bill, for which the new measure is a substitute.
Although he introduced the Wager bill in an attempt to replace the administration backed compromise, he pledged that he would make no unduly long speech today.
"It looks like we are going to get out tomorrow (Saturday) evening," Speaker Rainey said last night.
Senator Norris (R. Neb.) said, however:
"We don't have to adjourn tomorrow. We ought not to adjourn tomorrow. We ought to stay here and give serous consideration to these measures."

HUGH JOHNSON ASSAILS PRESS AND MR. DARROW

Says Former Is Partisan: Darrow Merely Communistic

Charleston, W. Va., June 16—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson today assailed the Clarence Darrow review board as communistic in purpose, accused part of the press of falsifying RA news and attacked "partisan politicians" aligned against the recovery unit.
His reply to critics featured this state's holiday celebration of NRA's first birthday. It was broadcast over a nation-wide hookup of Columbia Broadcasting Company.
Declaring "much of the press is in the hands of political opposition anxious to regain office" and that "to get a square deal" from these papers for NRA is impossible, he said;
"I can understand the communistic purpose of the Darrow board as an openly avowed assault on our whole system in favor of the semi-barbaric atrocities of half-civilized Russia, but the betrayal of a great public trust by a newspaper to accomplish a partisan end in utter disregard of the present and future security of the wage and salary-earning element of our population is quite another matter."
"And again I ask," he continued, "what responsibility do they assume in risking and inviting the return of child labor and in deliberately invoking a new epidemic of price and wage cutting and the certain sinking into a new degradation of the living standards of American working people of all classes?
"Just God, is there no price too high for these people to pay for political advancement? Is there no state of human misery that is worthy of their sympathetic, unselfish and honest support?"

C. C. President at Variance with NRA Over Union Clause

Hot Springs Va., June 16 —(AP)—Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said today an employer has the right to deny work to a man because he is a member of a labor union if he so desires.

Harriman laid this opinion before 40 business leaders on the NRA industrial advisory board, which met privately today to study NRA's future as its first year ended.

His view was interpreted as being in conflict with the National Industrial Recovery Act, which seeks to establish that membership in a union shall not be used by an employer as a reason for refusing a job. This part of the act, Harriman said, was probably unconstitutional.

OTHERS SHOULD LEARN RETREAT.

Again General Johnson has shown Washington administrators how to make an orderly retreat. NRA has dropped a large part of its price-fixing ideas.

When General Johnson finds machinery failing to function, he gets rid of it. When the AAA falls short of its objects it demands more power and plunges farther in the direction which it failed.

It was in connection with the AAA that President Roosevelt made it clear to the congress that it was wholly experimental legislation and that if it failed to work, he would be the first to abandon it. It appears that in the judgment of the president it has not failed. We do not know that the rest of us should say that it failed. Yet we are confronted with the fact that when voluntary reduction of cotton acres through compensation failed, the congress passed a law making reduction compulsory. There must be something failing in the act when demands are made for additional law that will make the secretary of agriculture dictator over every business that handles or processes food; that will give the secretary authority to license every business of that kind and then wthdraw the license, putting the individual, firm, or corporation and its investments out of business; that will give the secretary power to say what prices shall be charged and what prices shall be paid and what wages scales throughout may be.

We all have been anxious that the AAA should be successful. Prosperity on the farm means prosperity for the whole country. It was far more important that AAA should work than that NRA should operate successfully. When the farmer prospers the industrialist will not need to worry.

Nevertheless, if AAA can not operate successfully without giving the secretary of agriculture and his bureaucrats and theoretical farmers and men wholly without experience in business the power to dictate every detail of every man's business in connection with handling food from the operator of the stirring plow to the soda fountain clerk, we question whether or not the price is too high.

We commend to the agricultural bureaus the manner of General Johnson. Do not retreat by plunging farther into error.

HIS TRUSTY REVOLVER.

George M. Jackson, aged 92, residing on a farm at Spring Lake in Cook county, proved the exception to the rule. When bandits were searching the house, he got hold of his trusty revolver and sent them on a hasty retreat.

When there is agitation of the proposal to prohibit sales of firearms, there always is the counter-argument that householders are disarmed, but criminals are criminals anyhow and always will be armed, in spite of the law.

We always have contended that finding a man who has defended himself against a criminal by having a gun in his possession or finding a household that has been defended against robbery, because there was a gun in the house, is like finding a needle in a haystack.

The gun always is handy when there is domestic trouble, the gun always is available when the person with a twisted mind reaches for it, but when do we ever hear of a burglar being shot while prowling in a dwelling?

Even this 92-year-old Tartar was caught off guard and had to do some smooth maneuvering to get to his gun. He was in the house alone when the robbers entered. He was helpless and they brushed forward taking their time, he telling them there was no money, and they insisting that there was. Finally, as if exhausted he sat down by his bed. Then he reached under his pillow and pulled out his gun. Before the nearest man knew the old man was armed, the gun was in his rbs.

Most people go through their lives without ever encounting a robber. They never are ready to meet one. Think of going through life always ready to meet a robber. Unless one is a watchman, he has something to think about other than being quickest on the draw. Regardless of how many guns the average individual has around, he never is ready to meet the man whose business it is to pull first. The Cook county farmer had been a village marshal.

Let our young men pass on from their detestation of war to a personal crusade to strengthen every international agency designed to prevent it. — President Robert C. Clothier of Rutgers.

The immutable law of the ordered life of human society is the law of goodwill.—Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown University.

Ireland is prepared to take the full consequences of being an independent nation.—President Eamonn de Valera.

This is not an alibi, but I feel that with generations of show folks back of me, the theater is my natural heritage. —Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Ethel Barrymore.

Boston is the only place where they speak the king's English in a way it can be understood in England.—Geo. Cukor, film director.

My slogan is work, and only through good work for the welfare of your country can you demonstrate your loyalty to me.—King Carol II, of Rumania.

Tinymites

Story by HAL COCHRAN — Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

The pretty maid sat on a stool and shortly said, "Now, as a rule, ol' bossy stands real still while I am getting milk from her.

"However, all you Tinies had best stand far back. 'Twill be too bad, if she starts kicking up her heels. Such things, you know, occur."

"Aw, she looks too kind," Duncy said. "I'm going up and pat her head. With animals I always can make friends. I'll prove it, too!

"There really is no cause for fright. When you talk kindly, you're all right." Then, when he patted bossy, Scouty said, "That's brave, for you."

* * *

The milkmaid then said, "Someone run and get some cups. 'Twill mean some fun for all of you, because I'm going to fill them to the top.

"If you do what I've asked you to, when you return I will be through with milking. I am good, you see, and never spill a drop."

Wee Scouty ran like everything, exclaiming, "I will gladly bring the cups. I'm very thirsty and the milk will taste just fine."

He reached the milkmaid's house and then was shortly running back again. The maid jumped up and said, "All right, tots, form into a line."

* * *

Each Tinymite soon has his fill. Then Duncy said, "I want the thrill of milking your ol' bossy. I once lived upon a farm.

"I'll milk the beast just as you've done." Wee Dotty said, "This should be fun! I only hope that clumsy Duncy doesn't come to harm."

Alas, alack. Poor Duncy was a very startled lad because, as soon as he sat down, the milkmaid's cow kicked way up high.

The lad went sprawling on the ground. He sat right up, and looking 'round, said, "I have had my fill of milking. No more will I try."

(The Tinies run to the rescue of another maid, in the next story.)

Living Our Everyday Lives

FACING OUR FEARS

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

"Fear has torment," the good Book tells us. How well we know it to be a fact. All of us are held back, inhibited, tormented by fear.

Our fears are of many kinds, chiefly of two kinds, and we must learns to know them apart. To mistake one for the other may mean disaster. There are actual fears and imaginary fears, and they must be dealt with differently.

Of course, if a thing is really dangerous we ought to be afraid of it. A man who has no fear at all has no sense, and he will get hurt. Such fear strengthens us, stimulates us, makes us keen and alert.

To find out whether a fear is real or fanciful, we must face up to the thing we are afraid of. If it is really dangerous we must accept the fact, take its measure, see it for what it is, and avoid it.

As George Herbert said long ago, if you think you see a ghost, go up to it and take hold of it. In nine cases out of ten you will find that it is only a sheet hung out to dry and forgotten by the servant. In that case there is nothing to be afraid of, really. But if we do not go up to it and see what it is, a comedy of errors may be a comedy of terrors. The imagination will make a motion-picture of it and scare us.

In other words, we must make friends with the things we are afraid of. So long as we are antagonistic to any person, or any experience, it has power to hurt us. And we hate a thing because we are afraid of it.

No doubt this was what Jesus meant when he told us to agree with our enemy, and that if a man should compel us to go one mile, we should go two miles. When we make friends with what we dislike, it cannot hurt us.

It is our imaginative, foreboding fears of unreal dangers that do us most harm. Such fear weakens us, paralyzes us, unfits us for life. It it really fear our ourselves attached to things that mean no harm to us. Here again we must face our fear, and find what it is in us that paints such a dark picture. Why are we afraid of ourselves?

By affirming the truth of being we can defeat fear and be free.

Daily Health Talk

CANCER OF THE RECTUM

Cancer of the rectum is an important division of the new growth diseases of the digestive tract Of the cancers that affect the gastro-intestinal tract, one-third of the number develops in the mouth, lips and tongue, a little less than one-third is found distributed from the esophagus (food pipe) to the rectum, and the remaining one-third is found involving the rectum.

Men and women are affected in equal numbers. Cancer of the rectum is peculiar on the score of the age of its victims. More people in the 'teen age are affected by cancer of the rectum than by cancer of any other part of the body. Studies show that approximately 10 per cent of the rectum cases are found under 30 years of age, and 4 per cent under 20 years of age. Between 50 and 60 are the commonest ages for the development of cancer of the rectum.

Unfortunately, cancer of the rectum in its early stages is a silent disease and may quite well exist for from six to twelve months without giving rise to any noteworthy symptoms. Perhaps the earliest suggestion of something wrong in the bowel is when a person of regular habits becomes slightly constipated. This constipation may alternate with mild diarrhea, but even so, these symptoms seldom alarm the sufferer.

When an individual has heretofore had no difficulty with his bowels and suffers a slight diarrhea which lasts from three weeks to a month, the condition deserves prompt attention

The appearance of blood and mucus with the movement should also arouse suspicion. It should not be taken for granted that the bleeding is due to hemorrhoids, nor should it be forgotten that both hemorrhoids and cancer of the rectum may co-exist. One should not treat oneself with pile remedies, but should submit to a thorough going examination, including an x-ray study of the large intestine.

Illinoisans in National Capital Get Into Spotlight

BY GERALD MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, June 16—(AP)—As Speaker Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, Ill., wields a dictatorial gavel in the house of representatives, he follows temporarily at least, in the footsteps of his formidable predecessor, "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Danville, Ill., now deceased

It was the bearded, stocky-smoking veteran of the opposite side of the sucker state who brought disfavor on the potent rules which permitted a speaker to do pretty much as he pleased about legislation. His ruthless employment of them brought the cry of "Cannonism," which is still heard often in these parts.

These powers were taken from the speaker during the service of the late Champ Clark of Missouri; and were restored recently only for the duration of the present session.

Democratic members of the Illinois congressional delegation are still chuckling over the impersonations of Representative Frank Gillespie of Bloomington at an informal get-together held in the apartments of Senator William H. Dieterich of Beardstown.

They gathered for a dinner and a chat, but Gillespie, who is gifted at such things, decided to put on a performance.

Not only did he impersonate Speaker Rainey, Dieterich, Representative Joe Byrnes, floor leader, and other leading lights of the administration, but he wound up the thing by giving an impersonation of himself impersonating somebody else.

Perhaps that sounds involved, but those present say it was the best of the evening.

BEHIND the SCENES With The Want-Ads

Not a day goes by that I am not impressed with the power of these little Wantads.

I see them sell livestock, rent farms, find help, locate lost articles, and perform any number of other services.

And all for a few cents.

Read every word of the classified. There's not a dull line in this department.

Old Times Here Recalled; "Ebe" Digs Into History

(By EBE.)

(Note—Send in your contributions to this column, in care of Ebe.)

Dixon's first paid fire department: Andy Graff, Frances Coffey, Charles Cupp, and the year was 1898.

In those days the Dixon hook and ladder team took the place of present day high school football squad and represented the city in statewide athletic events. Here is the state championship crew of 1902: William Armstrong, Bob Woodyatt Ward Miller, Charles Franklin, Jimmy Ballou, George DeWolf, Ernie Friedhoff, George James, Clarence Osborn, Jim Keenan, William Thompson, Monte Bales, Fred Mead, Francis Coffey, Terry Wingert, John Pritz, Roy Rossiter, John Henry. And the trophy that they won is still one of the treasured possessions of our present modern fire department.

August Truman's book store was located in the old Opera House building.

Lon Gage's hack and bus line. Many of the older notables attended social function at the old Dixon club, via these busses. And then there was the old Nachusa Tavern bus that met all of the trains. And how we boys would steal a ride on the back step when Lon wasn't looking.

The Dixon owned horses taking most of the ribbons at the DeKalb horse show last Saturday evening, recalls Mrs. S. H. Bethea and Miss Kate Godfrey who were, in their time, Dixon's best and most accomplished equestrienes. The former rode a beautiful white horse.

And speaking of horses—do you remember when all of Dixon's trucking was horse drawn. Bill Lee was the last of his line.

HENRY R. KREHL

Obituary

Henry R. Krehl was born at Franklin Grove and died at Greencastle, Ind at 7 A. M June 4, 1934, aged 67 years. He was the youngest son of G. F. and Wilhelmina (Schroeder) Krehl and a beloved member of a family of three sons and two daughters.

After attending public schools and Sunday school in Franklin Grove he was employed in various capacities and always enjoyed the commendation of all his fellow workmen. He was on Jan. 20, 1895 united in marriage to Miss Elsie Emma Gertrude Swingley, only daughter of Franklin O. and Ellen Hepfer Swingley; and into this loving family a beautiful daughter, Lois, and a dear son, Hollis, came to gladden all hearts, only to be called home early by the Saviour of little children.

From 1922 to 1934 Mr Krahl had charge of an orphans' home at Greencastle, Indiana, a work among the twenty odd children at the home will always be a guiding influence to the children, who were treated in kindly manner. Mr. Krehl took the same fatherly interest in these children that he would have taken if they were his own and his deat will be keenly felt not only in the home but in the community at large.

The pallbearers at Greencastle were: W. O. Timmons, E. A. Browning, W. B. Peck, A. L. Goodenough, Dr. D. W. Hildebrand and Prof R. T. Stephenson.

The pall-bearers at Franklin Grove were: L. A Trottnow, W. W. Phillips, J. H. Lincoln, J. E. Myers, G. W. Lahman and Emmett Randall of Dixon, all dear friends of his youth.

Friends from a distance present at the funeral were Dr. and Mrs. I. E. Honeywell, Mr. Stroemer and grandson, Mrs. C. D. Bulger and Miss Clara, Mrs Carrie Erickson, three raughters and son Roy; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Blocher and Mr. Miller, all of Chicago.

Also Mrrs W. O. Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. O. F Lakin, Jerome Welsh and Edward Alice Krehl, all of Greencastle; Ina C. Krehl of Aurora, Ill.; Mrs. Hattie Tholan and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hepfer of Oregon, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs Emmet Randall and daughter, Mrs. Thomas; Frank Fischer and daughters and Roy Swingley of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. John Myers and Mr. and Mrs. George Lahman of Lighthouse.

A wife, one brother, Frederick J. Krehl of this place; a brother Charles, a sister, Miss Ina, with a host of friends mourn his departure.

He was a faithful member of the M. E church and was active in all departments.

Christ, the compassionate,
Over Lazarus Christ wept
By the tomb in Bethany,
In His voice the sob had crept
And the moan of misery,
As He grieved through falling tears
For a friend of vanished years.

Passing down the road to Nain
At the sad and solemn sight,
Jesus touched the bier of pain
And the sorrow of the night,
Giving back to Love again
Life from death, Amen! Amen!

Brother, on the golden shore
Where the surges no more roll
Meeting those gone on before
In the Homeland of the soul!
Thou, with Christ the Lord, dost stand
Ransomed in Immanuel's land.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

©1934 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DONNA GABRIEL, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, MADELINE SIDDAL, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of the deception but keeps it up, even when BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Bill and Donna are married.

MRS. PLANTER, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

AMOS SIDDAL, Madeline's grandfather, has a stroke.

Meanwhile Madeline who has married CON DAVID, the animal trainer, is killed. Con knows of Donna's deception and decides to blackmail her. He comes to the nearby town and Donna agrees to meet him. Mrs. Planter learns of this and sends Bill an anonymous letter. When Donna reaches home after meeting Con she says she has been at a neighbor's. Bill knows she has not.

Next morning he goes to see Con who shows him the certificate of his marriage to Madeline. Bill thinks his wife has committed bigamy. During his absence Grandfather Siddall dies. Bill tells Donna he "knows the truth" and that he will leave immediately after the funeral.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

DONNA studied the contents of the clothes closet. What an accumulation of clothing she had—bungalow aprons, gingham dresses, her wedding finery. There was no need to take all that to New York. Her lips twisted as she smoothed the soft, silken folds of the garments she and Minnie had spent so much time making.

Her trunk, containing her circus wardrobe, was in the attic. It was so heavy she doubted if she could move it alone, yet to ask Minnie to help would mean starting a train of questions Donna was in no mood to answer.

She would take the car, she decided, and find someone to drive it back from Lebanon. If she faced Bill again she would be sure to break down and plead for forgiveness and she wanted to keep what little self-respect she had. There was a train for Chicago at 6 o'clock. If she hurried she could catch it!

Once out of this house she would be able to put Bill out of her heart and life forever. He would divorce her, of course. Desertion was grounds for divorce.

If she remained at the farm until the will was read Bill would have more cause for bitterness against her. Perhaps, when the first hurt was over, he would contest the will and Con David's scheming would be ruined.

All of the other members of the household were down stairs—Minnie sobbing as though she had lost her nearest and dearest; Bill, hard and bitter and cold, feeling the loss of his granduncle scarcely at all in the face of his disillusion. No one heard the sound as Donna dragged the big trunk down the stairs from the attic or heard her moan of pain as the edge of it crushed down on her instep.

The pain sickened her so that she was afraid she was going to faint. Obviously she could not move the trunk further.

• • •

SHE decided to take only necessities in her traveling bag and leave a note asking to have the trunk shipped later. It could be delivered to one of the hotels in Lebanon and she could send instructions later where to have it forwarded.

She tried to harden herself against Bill. It had been unjust for him to take Con's explanation as final, giving her no chance to justify herself. All the months of her devotion had counted for nothing against the word of a stranger. Perhaps in time she could learn to hate him.

"Some day," Donna sobbed aloud, "some day, Bill Siddal, you'll understand and be sorry you've treated me this way. Some day you'll come to me for forgiveness and I won't give it. I can be hard and bitter, too! I'm going to forget you. I'm going to be the greatest aerial performer in the world! When my name is plastered on billboards in three sheets and twenty-four sheets and I'm acclaimed in Europe, as well as here, you'll wish you hadn't driven me away!"

Then, because fame meant so little to her, because a career was the last thing she wanted, she dropped on the floor beside the bed and, hugging Bill's pillow in her arms, moaned her love for him.

"Oh, Bill! Bill! If I'd never seen you—if I just didn't love you so much! Why didn't you love me as I love you? Why wasn't I honest with you? I'd have lost you before we were married if I'd told you the truth, but it wouldn't have been so hard then. It's my heart I'm leaving behind, and I can't stand it. I can't stand it!"

• • •

SUDDENLY, through her sobs, she heard Bill's voice in the hallway below. With a shudder she recognized the name he spoke. It was that of the undertaker. Donna sat tense, breathless, praying that when the others departed Bill would seek her. But the door closed with a slam and no steps mounted the stairs.

She dragged herself to her feet, bathed her swollen eyes and face and combed her disordered hair. She put on her hat and the heavy coat and mittens. Then, carrying the traveling bag, she descended the back stairs.

The bobsled stood in front of the house where Bill had left it. Donna decided it was safer to take the car and also quicker. If there was an accident and she was killed her problem would be solved.

The sun had melted the drifts considerably and she manipulated the car more easily than she had anticipated. Not until she passed the Adams house did she remember that she had not written the note she intended to leave.

Well, she wouldn't go back. After all, why trouble a man who despised her? She would wait for the morning train and send a boy from the hotel for her trunk. Then she could take it with her wherever she went.

Wagons and machines had passed over the road since she had last traveled it and a dark ribbon was cut through the snow. She made fairly good time. She discovered, when she reached the public square, that she had plenty of time to catch the 6 o'clock train. She drove the car into the garage adjoining the Central Hotel and asked Ben Goddard, the owner, to see that it was returned to the Siddal farm.

"Going away?" Goddard asked.

"Yes. To Chicago. My—Mr. Siddal couldn't drive me in. So I want you to take it back."

"How's Grandpa? Feeling any better?"

• • •

SHE did not stop to think. "He's dead," she said dully.

"Dead! Ain't that something sudden? I hadn't heard anything about it."

Too late she realized that she should have withheld the news. "He died today," she explained.

"My land! That's too bad. It must be something awful important that's taking you to Chicago when your Grandpa has just died."

"It is. Will you send the car back right away, Mr. Goddard?"

"Sure, sure. 'Nother death?"

"No."

"'Spose you're going to catch the 6 o'clock?"

Feeling trapped, she said she was if she could get accommodations. To make good her word she walked toward the railroad station, carrying her luggage. Obviously, unless she wanted a worse scandal than the one sure to break, she could not stay overnight at the Central Hotel.

How foolish she had been to have told about Grandpa! Of course Dr. Freeman and the undertaker would tell the news, but they were both at the farm.

There was a hotel at the depot but it catered to the sort of transients a respectable woman would avoid. There was nothing for her to do but catch the train or stay over night at the Commercial House.

Within sight of the little red brick building, the enormity of what had happened rushed upon her with greater force. Was she really going away, never to return? Going away from all that life held dear? Had it been only a few months since the day they carried her from the train, carried her into a paradise that could not last? Bill's strong brown arms had held her on the stretcher. Grandfather, smiling, his sightless eyes searching as though they could see, had stood on that platform to welcome her. Now Grandfather was dead and Bill worse than dead!

She fought the impulse to run in the opposite direction, to seize the car and drive back to the farm. Then a shrill whistle split the air and the sound made Donna's decision. She began to run, stumbling blindly, hitting the heavy traveling bag against her legs. As the train drew to a standstill she reached the platform. There was no time to buy a ticket. A porter stepped down, lifted her luggage and helped her on the train.

"Pullman?" he asked.

"Yes. To Chicago."

A world heavyweight championship is changing hands as Primo Carnera sprawls in the resin in the top photo, flattened by a terrific right-hand punch from Max Baer in the 11th round of their battle in Madison Square Garden Bowl. You can hit 'em as hard with a short backswing as with a long sweep. The secret is timing.

Often in a long sweep the player spends the hitting force too quickly. By the time the clubhead has reached the ball, it actually has begun to slow down.

Some obtain long distances with a stroke that carries the club hardly past the perpendicular in a backswing

Baer Strives to Catch Up With His Night Club Pleasure

New York, June 16—(AP)—Heavyweight champion of the world and immensely pleased with it all, Max Baer resumed his old role of man-about-town today while his advisers discussed the advisability of a September bout for him.

There was talk of rematching the cocky Californian with Primo Carnera, the giant he so decisively whipped on Thursday; there were suggestions that perhaps it would be best to return to the old elimination tournament system to discover a logical contender and keep the new champion in cold storage until next summer. But it was all talk.

Resume Gay Life

Baer himself wasn't much interested. He spent his first day in the royal purple dashing in and out of the haberdashery shops, visiting his tailor, yachting on Long Island Sound, and catching up on his night-club routine, a trifle rusty after the two months' training period leading up to his successful challenge for the title.

Baer is under contract to Madison Square Garden for one title defense withnin a year. Under the terms of the agreement, the Californian can name the challenger and set the date for the fight by giving the Garden 30 days notice.

There were rumblings that Ancil Hoffman and Jack Dempsey would prefer to have Baer fulfill the terms of his contract as quickly as possible—that is, by defending the title in September—and thus leave the champion free to fight next summer under Dempsey's promotion.

EAST AND WEST MEET TODAY IN GREAT REGATTA

California Eight Will Defend Title Late this Afternoon

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 16—((AP)—It was the west against the east again today as thousands poured into Poughkeepsie to see the 36th renewal this afternoon of the intercollegiate rowing regatta.

When Referee Julian W. Curtiss calls the fleet to the stake boats off Krum Elbow sometime around 5:45 P. M. CST., it will be the golden pennant of California that the coxswains of the other six racing shells will be out to beat, if they can.

If California is not equal to the task it may be their west coast cousins, the Washington Huskies from Seattle, will be ready to row the east down.

Pitted against the invaders from the coast are the stalwart eights of Cornell, Syracuse, Navy, Penn and Columbia.

Cornell, second each year since it last won in 1930, is generally rated the most formidable of the home guard with Syracuse and Navy not far behind and the light but smoothly stroking Penn eight a real dark horse contender.

Detroit Derby is Track Feature of Today's Program

Detroit, June 16 —(AP)— The fair grounds track offered turf followers today the $25,000 added Detroit Derby—its best event since Michigan reinstated running races a year ago.

Twelve-three-year olds are expected to answer the post call at 4 P. M. CST., with Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade and Time Clock standing out as the most likely contenders for the rich purse.

A fast and dry track was indicated.

G. W. Ogle's Patchpocket will have the pole position, with Alfred G. Vanderbile's Discovery next. Seventh position has been allotted to Cavalcade and Charles T. Fisher's Mata Hari has been assigned the outside.

TERRY'S "LUCK" CONTINUING ON INTO THIS YEAR

Demonstrated Yesterday as Three Main Rivals Lost Too

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.)
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The "luck" of the Giants, seems to be working again

They provided an example yesterday when they dropped a game to Cincinnati 2 to 1 despite a five-hit hurling job by big Fred Fitzsimmons

But while New York lost, they were lucky that all the other first division clubs, lost also The second place Cardinals succumbed to Boston's 19-hit assault on four pitchers by a 10 to 4 count The Phillies conquered Chicago's Cubs 4 to 3 in ten innings after Adolph Camilli, traded by Chicago Monday, clouted a ninth inning homer with one on to tie the score Completing the route, the Brooklyn Dodgers turned back the fourth-place Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 4

Procedure Reversed

In the American League the procedure was exactly reversed, the four first-division clubs defeating lower ranking rivals

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees reached into his pitching grab-bag and pulled forth Danny MacFayden, who hadn't won a game since April Danny hurled a five-hit game to beat the Browns 6 to 3. and enable the Yanks to hold their margin of four percentage points over the Tigers

Detroit slammed out an 11 to 4 decision over the Boston Red Sox Cleveland's third place Indians beat the Athletics 12 to 6. and Washington took an 8 to 7 decision over Chicago.
